

SOUTH AFRICAN BAREFOOT HISTORY

Heinrich Sam, World and national champion

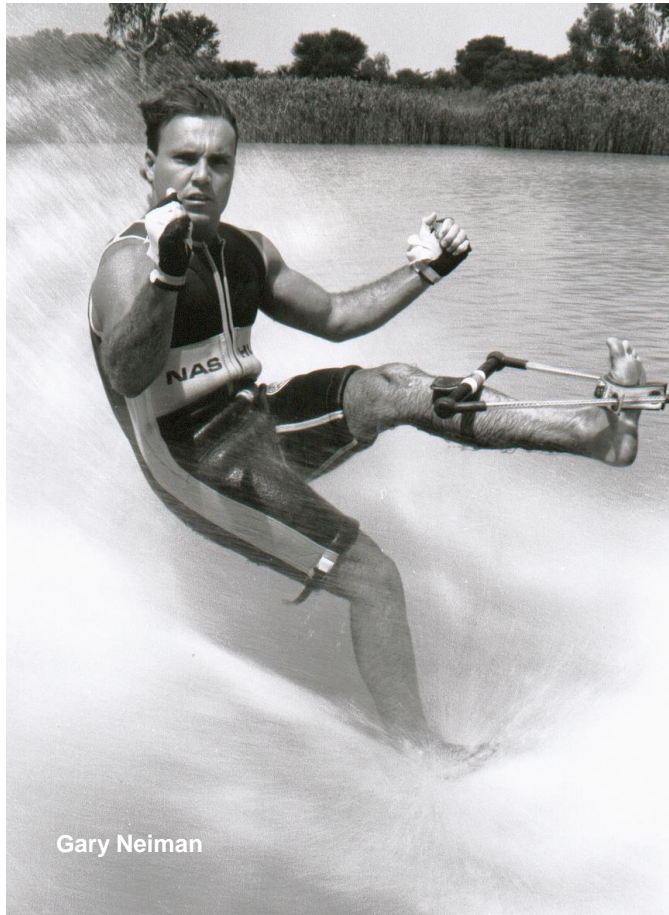

Though the South African Barefoot Waterski Association was founded in 1977, the first national championships were organized the year before, in 1976.

During the 1977 season, a national team flew to Europe in order to compete in the second Barefoot Group II (Europe and Africa) championships.

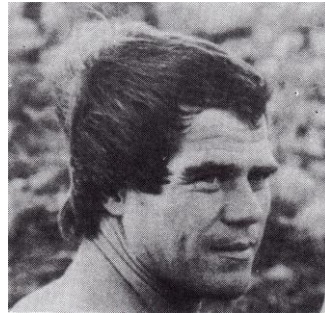

Peter Lindenberg took the gold in slalom, jump and overall and South Africa won the team event.

Mike Higgs

Andre de Villiers

Due to political reasons, the South African team was not allowed to enter international competitions until 1991, though South African footers were ranked at the top of the Group II standing lists, such as Mike Higgs, André de Villiers or Gary Neiman.

Meanwhile, during the eighties, friendly competitions were organized and South Africa received teams from New-Zealand, USA, Australia and even a strong European team in 1987, with skiers from several countries.

The Springbok team was very often the winner and skiers like Gary Neiman, Quentin Posthumus, Jason Neiman and Greg Mc Ewen were ranked at the top of the standing lists, breaking records in each event.

In 1990, Jason Neiman moved for the Belgian team and won the Region EAME open overall title three times in a row.

Jason Neiman

South Africa's comeback came at 1991 EAME championships in Lakeside, with the team finishing at the third place.

The year after in Roquebrune, France, the team took the gold medal and Evan Berger won the slalom event. In 1993, Warren Fine was crowned Region EA overall champion and at 1994 Worlds, the team won the bronze medal, finding at least his real place on the World scene.

Warren Fine

During the 1997 World junior championships in France, the junior team took silver medal, while Nadine de Villiers won three gold medals. It's the starting point for an extraordinary career, with her first World open title in 1998 and two other magnificent competitions with all open ladies individual titles won both in 2000 and 2002 !

Meanwhile, the South African junior team won the gold medal at 1999 World juniors, and again in 2006 and 2008 with team leader Heinrich Sam. At a world level, the open team took the silver medal in 2006 and 2008, beating twice in a row the Australian squad and Heinrich Sam won 2009 open World tricks.

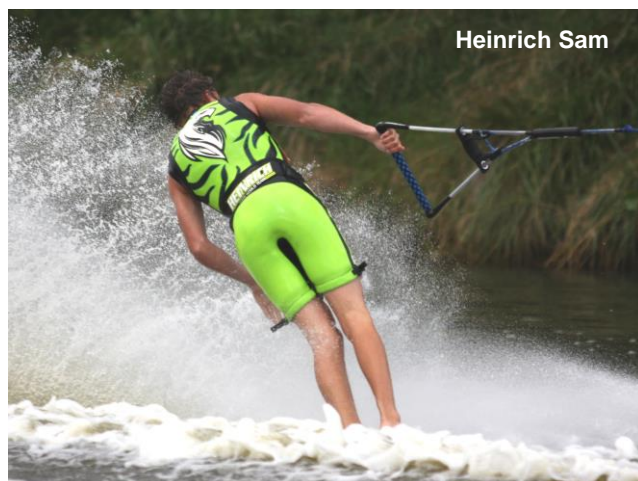

In 2013, South Africa hosts its first Region EA championships and won the open team title, with individual open titles for Shianne Addinal (tricks and overall) and Hermanus "Manie" Pickard (slalom).
